

EFFoST2022 - Roles and responsibilities

To ensure that the organization of the 36th EFFoST International Conference is managed efficiently the following roles have been defined with corresponding responsibilities.

1. Local Organising Committee (LOC)

The Local Organising Committee is responsible for developing a well-balanced, high-quality scientific programme to be presented at the conference. The EFFoST conference is known for bringing together/showcasing a number of food related disciplines, including microbiology, chemistry, physics, engineering. The reason of creating an inclusive multidisciplinary programme of food sciences is to be a leading forum of innovation where food professionals are exposed to new ideas from adjacent disciplines with the ambition to accelerate collaboration.

The conference is also a unique opportunity for the LOC to showcase their institution's expertise and the developments in food science and technology in their region. The LOC consists of a Conference Chair and a number of active members, who are representatives of academia, but possibly also public and private institutions. Their activities include the preparation of the programme, setting up the scientific committee, the abstract review process, which in turn will determine the sessions and the oral and poster presentations.

The scientific and educational programme will strongly determine the success of the conference and therefore is a very important part of the proposal; therefore, a Memorandum of Understanding/contract will be signed between EFFoST and the LOC to confirm their commitment.

Financial management

- Identify subvention (financial and in kind) opportunities
  - Secure sponsorship: this may be needed to close the budget or can be used to enhance certain aspects of the conference, e.g. quality and assortment of lunch or refreshments breaks
  - Keep to budget, e.g. invited speaker expenses
  - Contribute to post conference reporting
- * The LOC does not carry any financial risk; however, they should employ their best possible efforts to keep to the budget and secure the sponsorship promised during the bidding phase. This may either be achieved by reducing the costs through in-kind support or increasing income through sponsorship.
